

08 Mar 2017 | News

Number To Know...0

by

There are zero female CEOs among the top 20 medtech companies listed on Medtech Insight's MTI 100 league table. The significantly smaller proportion of women executive leaders, compared to their male counterparts, is pervasive in the life sciences industry.

With Mar. 8 marking International Women's Day, Medtech Insight did a tally of how many female CEOs there were among the top 20 medtech companies in the MTI100 league table. There were no women at the head of these multinational groups. Gender diversity, or the lack of, is a pervasive issue in the life sciences industry. On Jan. 11, in an open letter to the biopharma community, more than 100 life science leaders outlined guiding principles and best practices to improve gender diversity throughout the industry.

To see if there are any female CEOs among the other MTI100 companies, click here to see the full league table.