Check out what Proteus Digital Health's Andrew Thompson has to say about how digital medicines can help ensure better health decisions and outcomes for patients.

"With digital medicines, we can provide physicians with completely objective and very precise data about how patients use their medicines and how they respond to them. As a result, doctors are much more able to engage with patients, who can make better health decisions about use of drugs and modify their lifestyle." – Andrew Thompson, cofounder/president/CEO, Proteus Digital Health Inc.
