Check out what electrophysiologist Suneet Mittal tweeted about Zoll Medical's promotion of its LifeVest wearable cardiac defibrillator at the American College of Cardiology annual meeting following a report of mixed results from the first randomized trial of the device.

"No mention that trial missed its primary endpoint (not even in the fine print). I guess you can market anything you want, how you want!" – Suneet Mittal, electrophysiology director, Valley Health System (Ridgewood, NJ)
