The International Consortium of Investigative Journalists unleashed this week the conclusions of a yearlong investigation into the medtech industry that paint it in an unflattering light. ICIJ interviewed former German Social Democrat MEP Dagmar Roth-Behrendt, the initial rapporteur at the European Parliament on the EU's new Medical Device Regulation. See what she said here.

"I saw a huge amount of lobbying in the 25 years I was in the European Parliament. But the way this was done was the blackest I've ever seen. And I wonder that people can get along with their conscience." –Dagmar Roth-Behrendt, former German Social Democrat MEP
