The largest diagnostics companies, including Roche Diagnostics Corp., showcased their latest products at the recent American Association for Clinical Chemistry's (AACC) conference in Anaheim. See what David Smith, regional business manager for Roche's Navify decision-support portfolio, said about it here.

"It automatically pulls all that patient information into a single dashboard. It improves the efficiency and the workflow of putting together these tumor boards ... and allows us to provide further insight into that patient." – David Smith, regional business manager, Roche Diagnostics
