

10 Sep 2019 | News

QUOTED. 10 September 2019. Spencer Stiles.

by

Stryker Corp. has agreed an all-cash transaction to buy point-of-care technology company Mobius Imaging and its sister company Cardan Robotics. See what Stryker's Spencer Stiles said about it here.

"This acquisition brings expertise in advanced imaging and robotics, as well as a robust product pipeline that add to Stryker's portfolio and will allow the spine division to provide more complete procedural solutions, including sales, service and support." – Spencer Stiles, group president for orthopedics, Stryker Corp.

- Find out more: Stryker Closes Gap With Competitors In Strategic Spinal Robotics Acquisition

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight