Abbott is encouraged by results from two studies of its Proclaim XR neurostimulation system for chronic pain, presented at the annual North American Neuromodulation Society (NANS) meeting in Las Vegas. See what Steven Falowski of Neurosurgical Associates of Lancaster in Pennsylvania said about it here.

"For patients suffering from chronic pain, spinal cord stimulation using a non-linear burst stimulation design resulted in significant improvement in all reported functional and psychosocial outcomes." – Steven Falowski, neurosurgeon, Neurosurgical Associates of Lancaster
