TÜV SÜD Product Service announced that it has issued a comprehensive EU quality management system certificate – which came with an alert for manufacturers from Andreas Stange, vice-president medical and health services for the notified body.

“The larger the portfolio of products, the more important it is to keep an eye on the deadlines that apply to the various risk classes of devices. By doing so, manufacturers can avoid supply bottlenecks.” – Andreas Stange, vice-president medical and health services, TÜV SÜD
