The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services has agreed to provide national Medicare coverage for mitral valve transcatheter edge-to-edge repair under a new coverage with evidence development policy. See what Neil Moat, chief medical officer for Abbott's structural heart business, said about it here.

"CMS' decision to expand coverage for MitraClip marks a pivotal moment for people seeking a minimally invasive option that reduces mitral regurgitation and significantly improves their quality of life and chances of survival." – Neil Moat, chief medical officer, Abbott's structural heart business
