

10 Dec 2021 | News

QUOTED. Kees Wesdorp.

by

Royal Philips hopes its artificial intelligence-bolstered imaging systems align with the demand for more information while overcoming the fear of radiologist burnout. See what Kees Wesdorp, chief business leader at Royal Philips' Precision Diagnosis division, said about it here.

“45% of radiologists report some symptoms of burnout ... and we are seeing increasing rates of chronic and complex diseases and an explosion of data associated.” – Kees Wesdorp, Chief Business Leader, Royal Philips' Precision Diagnosis

- Find out more: Philips Battles To Provide More Information, But Not At The Cost Of Burnout

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight