

29 May 2020 | Analysis

Device Week, 29 May 2020 – CAPA Gets A Nip And Tuck

by Shawn M. Schmitt

In 2018 the US FDA and the Medical Device Innovation Consortium (MDIC) embarked on a mission to recast corrective and preventive action – CAPA – as a continuous learning tool, rather than a place where problems often go to linger, be ignored and never die. On this week's podcast we talk about the latest in those efforts, including a pilot program that's testing a risk-based CAPA framework.

Listen to the podcast via the player below:

Click here to explore this interactive content online

Medtech Insight articles addressing topics discussed in this episode:

- Not Your Grandfather's CAPA: Case For Quality Pilot Gives Corrective And Preventive Action A Facelift
- How A Team Led By Medtronic Quality Experts Plans To Stand Up To 'A Monster Called CAPA' – And Make It 'Cool'