Outlook 2023: Firms Prepare For 'World Where Health Care Has No Limits'

by Marion Webb

What's ahead for device companies in 2023? In this year-end special feature, execs at top device companies and other stakeholders share what they expect.

After the chaos of 2020 and 2021, 2022 showed hints of a return to normalcy. But what might 2023 bring? Executives from Edwards, Medtronic, Qiagen and more shared their predictions for the year ahead.

"2023 will be the year of..."

CEO and president, GE
HealthCare

... creating a world where health care has no limits. These are more than just words. They create a passion that is bringing people to GE HealthCare. Markets are at an inflexion point. COVID changed the way many people diagnose, and imaging played a significantly increased role because of that. We're uniquely positioned with what we have in our ecosystem and with precision care. As a separate company, we'll have more focus and be able to do things differently.
